Programme information and content

The programme provides a degree-level education in accounting and management. The study of accounting progresses through the programme, so that students obtain a critical grasp of core theory along with knowledge, skills of application and analysis related to this discipline. The degree also gives students an understanding of organisations, their management, and the business environment.

Students gain an understanding of the context in which accounting operates as well as the knowledge to use technical language and techniques. Students are able to analyse the operations of organisations using accounting techniques and to interpret and use accounting data.

Students gain valuable skills, understanding of work and the opportunity to apply for exemptions (credit for prior learning) for a range of professional accountancy exams. A broad range of assessments are used within the programme to provide students with the opportunity to demonstrate a variety of skills and test knowledge in a number of different ways.

|------------------------------|--|
| Part 1:                      | Introduces the basic principles of financial and management accounting in the broader context of business. Students also develop study skills and the ability to critically analyse and solve problems.  |
| Part 2:                      | Extends the core accounting and business knowledge gained at Part 1 and students' skills are developed further. Both knowledge and skills are embedded further through applied learning. Students extend their learning through the synthesis of material and develop their ability to make comparisons and critically evaluate.   |
| Placement/Study abroad year: | Students undertake a one-year optional work placement in professional practice, or a broader position related to a career in accountancy, business or finance. The placement encourages the development of professional practice skills that form the basis for students' future careers. Students may develop their technical skills and understanding or develop broader skills and confidence in their ability through hands-on experience or management and are likely to improve their overall understanding of the workplace and improve their graduate prospects. |
| Part 3:                      | Students continue to develop the depth and breadth of technical accounting knowledge. Accounting is based in context and situations, techniques and examples studied may become more complex. Students extend their skills of critical evaluation and discuss contemporary accounting and management issues. Students continue to develop their transferable skills, gaining real employability.   |

Reading lists and module specific costs are listed on the individual module description forms. Subject to module selection, students may be required to purchase sundry materials (i.e. printing). Many students find it advantageous to have their own personal computing facilities though there are central facilities available.
